AGFORESTRY GRADUATES ARE LEADERS WHO...

- Educate, work on and advocate for water, environmental, social, economic development, international trade, and policy issues with organizations and communities
- Communicate skillfully, collaborate on tough issues and seek common sense solutions
- Understand policy development
- Work effectively with legislators and members of Congress
- Are highly skilled critical thinkers who constitute a dynamic network that is working daily to keep Washington State's natural resource industries vibrant and growing
- Provide leadership from the grassroots up, serve local, state and federal government, and NGO's
- Serve as a voice for our natural resources industries
- Are forward thinking and have a vision for a better future
- Desire to positively impact lives and communities in Washington State and throughout the World

Communicate, collaborate, inspire and serve

WHAT IS AGFORESTRY LEADERSHIP?

Recognized as the premier leadership development program in Washington State, the Washington Agriculture and Forestry Education Foundation began its first class in 1978 to develop leaders. The program offers hands-on learning experiences to achieve our Mission: To cultivate leaders in agriculture, forestry and natural resources who communicate, collaborate, inspire and serve.

Over 18 months, 13 leadership seminars are presented:

- ◆ Leadership and Communication
- ◆ Group Dynamics and Public Speaking
- ◆ Working with Media
- ◆ Social Services
- ◆ State Government
- ◆ Forestry
- ◆ Agriculture
- ◆ The Columbia River System
- ◆ Crime and Corrections
- ◆ Transportation
- ◆ National Government -Washington, D.C.
- ◆ International Trade, Culture and Government (select foreign country)
- ◆ Leadership Resources and Graduation
